Subject: Change of email addresses

Overnight we transferred people's emails over to the new @news.com.au format. When you send an email from now on it will come from the new email address.

Please note that you will continue to receive emails sent to your old email address.

People who use OurNews should, for the time being, continue to use their existing address to log in. We are working with New York to update the site with new email addresses.

If you have any questions, please contact your local IT helpdesk.
